

Peter Tillou Collection Of American Glass Goes To Auction

Five sugar bowls in exciting forms and colors

Three brilliant Midwestern pattern molded globular bottles and a striking Zanesville "Grandfather" pattern molded flask.

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, CONN. — Peter Tillou is a wellknown figure in the art and antiques world. For decades he has been the premier collector, dealer, scholar and mentor to those of us that love the history, beauty and significance of antiques.

Over the years, he has assembled many collections. His interest and passion cover all manner of art and antiques: furniture, paintings, rugs, pre-Columbian, Indian art, coins, bronzes and automobiles, to name a few.

One of his favorite collections is his fine, hand-chosen freeblown and pattern molded glass. A large, third story room in Peter's home was devoted to his impressive glass collection. Norman C. Heckler and Company will offer the glass collection of Peter Tillou at absentee auction September 21-30. Among the 272 auction offerings are numerous free-blown creamers, pitchers and jugs.

Peter also loved the very early, free-blown New England chestnut and globular bottles. His collection features many different sizes, forms and colors.

Collectors will be pleased to see Peter's collection of more than 30 Victorian witch balls in exciting, vibrant colors, many of which include matching stands. The sugar bowls are fabulous and were chosen by Peter for their form, origin and color.

There is no shortage of color in this auction. The colognes in a wide range of jewel tones do not disappoint. Rare, colorful blown three-mold items include two decanters in shades of green. The Midwest is represented by brilliant, pattern molded, colored globular bottles.

Another exciting part of this diverse collection is the Pittsburgh and Sandwich pressed glass. Forms include vases, carafes, decanter, tumblers and more.

The collection is currently on preview, with the auction action starting on September 21 and ending on September 30.
